The history of the Remigiusplatz

The square in the heart of downtown Bonn is named after the former parish church of St. Remigius, which was destroyed by lightning in 1800.

It was not rebuilt. Remnants of the church were reused in newer church buildings.

Its pulpit can be found today in Bonn Cathedral. The bell can be found in the Namen-Jesu-Kirche in Bonngasse and the baptismal font of the former parish church can be found today in the Remigius church in the Brüdergasse.

The parish church of St. Remigius was also in its time for Ludwig van Beethoven a formative place.

Ludwig himself and most of his siblings were baptized there. His grandparents and parents were married in the parish church and his great-grandparents were buried there.
